Part II, Line 5 - Monitoring and Enforcement Policy

A preservation easement is a legal agreement that gives the easement holder the responsibility to protect the visual and structural integrity of a particular historic structure, even though that structure is actually owned by another person. The intent of the preservation easement is to prevent anyone from demolishing or severely altering the historic building without the permission of the easement holder. The owner retains all the usual private property rights except for the right to destroy the property. Alterations, improvements, and even additions to the structure are allowed, as long as they do not compromise its historic character. Preservation Utah's preservation easement program is operated as a public service. We hold easements and take on great responsibility with those easements. Each year, we send an easement inspector to evaluate each of our easement properties. The easement inspector examines each property and writes a report on the property's condition. These reports are kept in Preservation Utah's permanent records and are used as reference points when changes or alterations are proposed for an easement property, or when Preservation Utah needs to take preventative measures to secure a building's condition.

Part II, Line 9 - Accounting for Conservation Easements

The Organization has acquired its conservation easements through donation. The Organization considers its conservation easements to be collections, under GAAP, because they are held in furtherance of public service rather than for financial gain and they are protected, cared for, and preserved. The Organization does not sell its easements.

The Organization has elected not to capitalize its easements, under FASB ASC 958-360-25-3. Under FASB 958-605-19, contributed collection items that are not capitalized should not be recognized as revenues or gains.

Part X - FIN 48 Footnote

The Organization has been recognized by the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) as exempt from federal income taxes under Section 501(c)(3), qualifying for the charitable contribution deduction under section 170(b)(1)(A)(vi), and has been determined not to be a private foundation under Section 509(a). The Organization is annually required to file a Return of Organization Exempt from Income Tax (Form 990) and is subject to income tax on net income that is derived from business activities that are unrelated to their exempt purposes. Management has determined that the Organization is not subject to unrelated business income tax.

Management believes that the Organization has appropriate support for any tax positions taken in its annual filing and does not have any uncertain tax positions that are material to the financial statements. The Organization's Forms 990 are no longer subject to tax examination for years before 2019.

Form 990, Part III, Line 4b - Second AccomplishmentHistoric Properties

Preservation Utah's historic properties program preserves and protects Utah's built environment through loan, easement, and restoration / rehabilitation projects. Since 1970, the organization has managed a revolving loan fund that offers low-interest loans to owners of historic property. Loan projects must meet national standards of historic preservation to be approved. Since the loan program's inception, entire neighborhoods have been revitalized. The easement program provides permanent protection for over 126 historic properties in the State of Utah.

Each year, Preservation Utah inspects these properties and rates their conditions. A report is given to each property owner with suggestions on how to care for their property. The rehabilitation program provides the public with practical preservation training through guest lectures and workshops. The events focus on training in historic preservation techniques.

In 2022, Preservation Utah acquired no new easement properties. We did establish two loans totalling $246,160. We inspected all of our easement properties in 2022 and rated with reports of their condition and recommendations sent to the property owners.

Form 990, Part III, Line 4c - Third AccomplishmentOther Program

In 2022, Preservation Utah sponsored other programming that aligns with our mission, including the Preservation Conference, Heritage Awards, and Historic Home Tours. The annual Preservation Conference is the premier preservation conference in the State of Utah. It brings together preservation professionals, technical experts, students, property owners, and the general public to network and learn about preservation in our state. The organization's Heritage Awards annually recognize the best in Utah's preservation work. Award categories include rehabilitation & restoration, heritage organization or business, adaptive reuse, individual, and lifetime achievement. The organization's semi-annual home tours focus on varied historic neighborhoods in Utah. They are offered to the general public and provide education and history about the homes, neighborhoods, and architectural styles of the featured properties. Properties selected in the tours demonstrate positive cases of historic preservation and are examples to be replicated by the public in their own rehabilitation work.

Form 990, Part VI, Line 6 - Classes of Members or Stockholders

The bylaws require that the organization have members, who pay an annual fee. Members participate in an annual member meeting as well as special member meetings, if called for. Each member is provided one vote of equal weight, unless membership is held in the name of multiple people, in which special rules apply.

Form 990, Part VI, Line 7a - Election of Members and Their Rights

At each election of trustees, every member entitled to vote at the election has the right to vote in person, by proxy, or if a written ballot is solicited by the Corporation, by written ballot, for as many persons as there are trustees to be elected and for whose election the member has the right to vote.

All potential conflicts of interest are reviewed by the Executive Committee to determine the appropriate action to be taken to eliminate or mitigate risks posed by the conflict.
